Architecture & Interior Design

The TownHouse Hotel in Mykonos has been carefully restored to reflect the charm and sophistication of its 18th-century heritage whilst balancing the demands of today's most discerning guests.

International Architect and Interior designer Nader Gebran was commissioned to work on The TownHouse project which has taken some three years in the making.

As one of the oldest neoclassical buildings in Mykonos, the process and archaeological restrictions have been numerous. This is reflected in the building's design which combines historical features and idiosyncrasies with modern day luxury.
